

Conservatism: Activities

Comparing different streams of conservatism (A01, A02)

The first column in the table below outlines a variety of perspectives that can be linked to different streams of conservatism. Carefully read through the information and then try to decide which of the conservative streams listed in the table is most closely linked to the perspective (tick the appropriate box). To finish, give a reason to explain your choice in the last column.

In some cases, you may feel that some of the perspectives may be linked with more than one of the conservative streams. If you come to this conclusion, remember to explain why in the last column.

Perspective: As a matter of principle, state intervention in our day-to-day lives should be limited, especially the extent of its intervention in the economy.
